Ayies worth Creek Park, East Jermyn, having a successful summer, from all accounts, despite their printer's having a factor of the first particles of the Conors. Remember him in "Mannix?" (Mike....not Gary!) After many years with the Metropolitactions that read "Dunduff!" And we never make mistrakes! (Lead on, MacDuff!) Sorry to see Taylor Rental pull out of its Childs location....happy to see Tavelways bushines (Amabile & Propost) now occupying the same site.

Ditto to Jack Ward of Jermyn, transfering to the Queens, N.Y., branch of Grumman-Olson of Mayfield...Likewise good luck to Jermyn's Deanne Stevens, who "got a piece of the rock" and is in training for a post with Prudential Insurance....

Happy Birthday Aug. 23 to Joe Price of Terrace Street, Carbondale....and to Modad and her family on the loss of their Dad, Alley Modad, Pioneer City pioner businessman, and to the family of the late Malters, 410 Gibson St., Jermyn, sixteen on Aug. 19. More of the same natal day wishes to Jermyn unsurance exec Arthur P. (for Prentice) Wasley, a Chapman Lake resident, who celebrated Aug. 13, and to his better-half, Thais, on Aug. 20.

Waiting on wall

According to Carbondale's city administrator, Martin P. Judge, the Williams Avenue wall along the Racket Brook, has still not been repaired nearly a year after it partially collapsed, threatening the eity street.

Surface drains have been placed in the main west side thoroughfare and construction crews are now digging out to put in a subbase for the new road surface.

According to city administrator Judge, curbs will be constructed prior to the building of sidewalks there.

He also told the Mirror that the city has received very few complaints from residents.

The city is considering amending the South River Urban Renewal Project to allow the construction of curbs and sidewalks on Main Street between Sixth Avenue and Seventh Avenue, the Mirror learned last week.

City council, which met Monday night was to vote upon the matter.

Judge told the Carbondale Mirror last week that State Representative Frank Serafini had visited the site last Tuesday and promised to get in touch with the state's Department of Forestry and Waters which has the responsibility for the wall, Judge said.

Dundaff Street ahead

The city's two street cleaning machines are out every day, Judge told the Mirror last week.

However, he noted that the city's street department is concentrating on cleaning way into mine workings in that area.
